Medicines prepared under the principles of Col, Sir Leonerd Rogers, C. I. E., M. D. B. S., F. R. C. S., I., M. S., and modified by us to suit Indian climate and temperament, GUARANTEED SCIENTIFIC CURE FOR
Leucoderma and Leprosy

Leucoderma or White Skin does not easily change colour and the so-called unscientific pills and oils only aggravate and create new troubles. But Behar Chemical Works proudly declare that to-day they are able to place before the Public Scientific remedies after laborious provings and tremendous expenses—remedies that are non-irritant, non-mercurial i. e., totally harmless drugs producing no reaction. These remove rapidly the white patches by supplying natural pigments and expelling all impulities from the blood. Whatever the nature of the disease, hereditary, veneral poison or any other known and unknown source of infection, chronic or acute cases, all skin eruptions due to deficiency of colouring matter or mercurial poisoning—all cases are cured by our specifics both internal and external uses at Rs. 10 per set. Postage extra. Writes Mr. B. Sinha from Port Blaird—The medicines for the white patches were used on my son and the patient got too much benefit from its effects and ultimately cured—a wonderful thing for the Leucoderma in the world which you are selling at such a cheap rate for the public. If it was sold at Rs. 50 instead of at Rs. 10 it would have been very cheap

Leprosy—whether Tuberoular, Nodular, Lepra Macull Anasthetica or Smooth Leprosy, mixed or para Leprosy—all the known varieties are promptly checked, and cured by our scientific remedies including internal medicines and external drugs (application, fumigation and bath) which cost Rs. 15 per full set. Detailed information in Literature sent free to all.

SHARES.

There were wild fluctuations in the market during the four working days. At times the speculators were busy hammering the rates down by Rs. 300 in big shares and about Rs. 100 in small shares. The syndicates are in a hopeless mess and it is quite possible that forced liquidation may be necessary. The price of yarns is weaker, while cloth is also quiet with no inquiry. With weaker cotton, cloth-dealers are not bold enough to pay the present ridiculous prices to the mills for their products. Unless something of a miracle comes over the market, there is not much chance for an improvement in the rates of cotton mill shares.

In the miscellaneous section, Tata deferreds uropped to Rs 240, but improved and closed steady at Rs. 275, and Ordinary's at Rs. 82/8. These appear to be bottom rates at present. Trams were steady round Rs. 133, Bank shares continue in good demand; Tata Banks ar esteady round Rs. 23 and Imperial Bank (part-paid) round Rs. 400.

FINANCE.

Money is still plentiful. Call money rates is about 1½ per cent and the short deposit rate is about 2½ per cent. The demand for treasury bills continues and some people are now inclined to take 12 months treasuries. There is good inquiry for Government stocks; all stocks are now being bought on about 6 per cent interest basis, so that the market rates for bonds of all kinds are better.

Exchange has been a steady market with an improvement in the rates. There were some yen bills showing this week and Calcutta also reports hessian bills. The bazar speculators are out of market as they have been hit over their last contracts. The market is likely to move under the influence of genuine export business.

Gold was steady and the highest rate touched was Rs. 28/14, but closes at Rs. 28-11 on

BACK BAY RECLAMATION.

TODAY'S MEETING.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE CHRONICLE."

Sir,—Your readers are aware by this time, how the Back Bay Reclamation scheme is likely to ruin the finances of this city and eventually of this Presidency. You, Sir, have written some splend'd articles on the subject. Mr. Hallai has also written a few good letters in his own way. But the voice of Bombay should be definitely and distinctly raised against this most expensive, extravagant and hazardous scheme ever taken up in India or in the East. When Education, sanitation and Irrigation are starved, this white Elephant like scheme is cherished, nurtured and executed! I deeply regret the silence of Sir Dinshaw Wacha on this subject. He knows too well, how the Old Reclamation scheme brought ruin on Bombay! And there is no expert and reliable advice, no expert experience, no expert undertaking, no expert contractor for the planning and execution of this mammoth scheme! And pray, where is the earthly necessity of reclaming Back Bay, when thousands of acres of land are available; and when the pressing problem of the moment is more houses? At the last Town Hall meeting, the Back Bay Reclamation scheme was studiously avoided! But, Bombay cannot be untrue to itself or to posterity. The Back Bay Reclamation scheme is not at all urgent or important. It can be deferred, till the building programme is completed. And this must be emphasised by the citizens at to-day's public meeting at the Marwadi Vidyalaya.—Yours, etc.

BARJORJI FRAMJI BHARUCHA.

Patel will preside.

Banker, Maulana Abul Kalam Azad and others will address the meeting. Mr. M. R. Jayakar will preside.

THE EXCELSIOR HTEATRE.

"WHO'S HOOPER."

"Who's Hooper" is unquestionably one of the best of the Bandman productions.

Adapted from Sir Arthur W. Pinero's farce "In Chancery", "Who's Hooper" was produced in London last year, at the Adelphi, and proved an immense success. In the original cast that imitable comedian W. H. Berry played Valentine Hooper. I saw the show in London, and laughed heartily over the amusing adventures of this unfortunate gentleman, and when one has such another capable comedian Jerry Verno to wit, taking over the part, there appears to be no question as to the continued popularity of this show.

In Jerry Verno the Bandman Company possesses a very brilliant comedian. His Valentine Hooper we consider quite one of his best performances.

"Who's Hooper" is a play which cannot possibly fail to amuse you, unless of course quite recently you happened to have bought an enormous quantity of German marks, in hope of making your fortune, then of course you would have very little sense of humour left to enjoy it. At any rate "Who's Hooper" like the German mark is indeed perplexing. The great question during act number one is, Who is Hooper? and we are left guessing for a while, whilst Valentine Hooper, the mysterious gentleman in question, endeavours to work out the issues of identification.

If ever you are so unfortunate as to be involved in a railway smash, but are fortunate to escape in full possession of your life, but unhappily with an impaired memory which is on some occasions an inconvenience, on others an advantage, in Mr. Valentine Hooper's case, the former, there is nothing left for you to do, but to take life as you find it, and this is precisely what our friend in question did. In the first place we find Mr. Hooper accidently in possession of someone else's coat, and in one of the pockets, a card bearing a name, "Valentine Hooper." This is the commencement hereafter of all the trouble. We will leave it to your own imagination to picture to yourselves possibilities for continuous complication, domestic and otherwise very much otherwise, amusingly involving our hero. We consider Mr. Hooper a hero for running the risk of being nearly let in for two wives.

When one looses one's memory anything may of course happen. Happily after a series of amusing experiences, Mr. Hooper's memory is restored, at a very opportune moment, and—"Alls well that ends well."

Dora Dolaro, Dolly Prince, Jerry Verno, Eric Masters, Jack Crichton and the rest of a very able cast are to be complemented on their efforts towards assuring the success of an excellent production.

SPECIAL UNIVERSITY CONVOCATION.

The Registrar of the University of Bombay writes to say:—Admission to the Special University Convocation for presenting an Address of Welcome to His Royal Highness by the Senate is restricted to Fellows of the University and the staffs and present students of local affiliated Colleges. The University authorities regret that under the circumstances it will not be possible to issue admission cards to members of the general public.

MULSHI PETH SATYAGRAHA

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE CHRONICLE."

Sir,—Will you publish in your most esteemed paper the following few lines?

The long running contract between the Tata Power Company and the Satyagrahis of Mulshi has ended on the 7th instant. Now the Company is free to begin the dam-construction work and the Satyagrahis to show their preparedness for the ensuing miseries. During the last six months the Company had been very active and alert to white wash the illegalities with im- been arrogantly perpetrated with im-punity. The formerly un-applied Land Acquisition act was, a few months ago, applied; and now the Company is quite lawful and constitutional to proceed to further work. The arbitrary announcements of the prices of lands to be acquisitioned have, by their poverty, stupified those interested in the question. The best land in Mulshi is sold and bought at a price of a thousand or more rupees per acre. But "the kind hearted mabap Sarkar" has too much exceeded even the Sawkar in fixing the price at Rs. 550 per acre including the 15 per cent. graceful allowance. The best land and offered for 550, the middle one for Rs. 350 and tiny little poor one for Rs. 50 per acre including the graceful allowance. And again, the final decision with regard to the classification of lands rests with the Government, and not with the people. But the Satyagrahis of Mulshi are not stones and bricks to be so easily deluded by the company which has translated its acts of illigality into full legal measures. They are as firm and prepared for Satyagraha as they were six months before. They have once passed through the severel ordeal of Satyagraha, and have now made a considered preparation for a fresh campaign. T ough they have, for some months to come, lost some of their best companions in Satyagraha, in the Shera-Satyagraha case, still their zeal is unbounded. They feel in their heart of hearts that they are fighting for a noble cause! They have made every preparation and have taken every precaution, and erected the banner of Satyagraha on the Satyagraha Camp on the 7th instant. They gathered at the Satyagraha Camp and declared war against the dam! It was a grand and grave meeting; all elsewhere was deep-silence. All the speakers were speaking with a thrilling and an emotional heart. The meeting ended in cheers for their ancestral lord the Great Shivaji.

But though the Mavala Satyagrahis had gone to do their duty as Satyagrahis. The Company, has been found wanting in preparation. There were no signs to show that the Company was going to begin the work immediately after the expiry of the Contract. If has been said, and perhaps with much truth, that the Company has not been allowed by the Government to begin its work till the Prince leaves the Bombay Presidency. It may, therefore be safely understood that the Company does not begin its work till the end of this month.

But when the Company will begin its work, the Satyagrahis are sure to oppose it. And to remove these Satyagrahis, the Company has asked and the Government has promised, it is said, all help.

But the fact, if it is a fact, that the Government has promised the use of soldiers at Mulshi, has instead of diminishing the enthusiasm of the Mavalas and their Co-Satyagrahis, highly increased it. Many a man and woman too has given promises to come to Mulsi and go through the ordeal.

Though the fight of the Satyagrahis and the Company is destined to take place, the very share holders of the Company have retracted their support to the Company. They have fell the unjustice done in mulshi, and want it to be Compensated. They abhor the idea that a further unjustice be done. Some shareholders from Gujrath and elsewhere are going to wait upon the Directors of the Company and make some definite proposals to them. What proposals they are going to make, is not yet known, but one thing is known and it is this, that they want to give full compensation to the Mavlas for the injustice done to them in past. It is, therefore, clear that they shall have no hand in the commitment of further injustices! The whole sin of the crime will fall upon the Tatas and their Colleagues and the Directors. Sir Dorabji Tata, by whose name the company holds its reputation has directly constradicted himself. He had asked for the application of the Land Acquisition Act under the very conditions, which are quite otherwise than those recommend by him as the president of the Committee formerly appointed to consider the acquisition of lands. God forbid the ghastful spectacle to come and let the Tatas abandon the scheme.—Yours, etc.

KAMGAR HITAWARDHAK SABHA,

A meeting of the Kamgar Hitawardhak Sabha was held on the 9th inst. at Lower Parel. Among the resolutions it passed there was one which ran as follows:—

That this meeting records its emphatic protest at the speech made by Mr. Kanji Dwarkadas M. L. C., in the Bombay Legislative Council defaming the charcter of mill-hands by stating that 90 per cent of the Mill hand area is suffering from the venerial diseases.

"HOOLIGANISM IN CALCUTTA,"

(ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

CALCUTTA, Nov. 11.

Hooliganism is again on the increase in the northern section of Calcutta. Many cases of highway robbery are being reported daily and the number of undetected cases is increasing. A few days ago a Bengali doctor was attacked by three goondas in Harrison Road near Alfred Theatre and robbed of his purse. Another case of hooliganism occured some days back in front of the Senate House. Last evening another Bengali is reported to have been attacked and robbed by two hooligans in Noren Sen's Square of Beniatolla.

BIBLE TEACHING.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE CHRONICLE."

Sir,—It was in last October that the Bible movement was first started in the Wilson College on an intensive scale and in the absence of a fuller report it is desired hereby to make public the measure of success that has since attended the movement. Our agitation brought the question of conscience clause once again to the fore and accordingly several resolutions bearing on the topic were moved in the provincial as well as the Imperial Legislative Councils. I suppose the one moved in the U. P. Council was passed while the other in the Legislative Assembly was unfortunately disallowed by the Viceroy. The reason assigned was that it should be moved in the local councils. It is known that Mr. Bhate is going to move a similar resolution in the Bombay Council and I hope the Education minister will see his way to accept the same. We have not forgotten the very sympathetic letter Mr. R. P. Paranjpe wrote to us in his non-official capacity. Thus it will be seen the question is on the high road to success. If however, the present Council proves to be incapable of doing justice to this important matter, the question of the conscience clause will have to wait till a representative body of non-cooperators or nationalists is elected in the place of the present farcical council. In the meanwhile, it only remains for us to agitate among the students and persuade them to boycott the Wilson College. Our achievement so far in this direction is most encouraging for the College authorities were forced to reduce the period for Bible instruction from forty-five minutes to twenty-five. Further the number of students attending this College has substantially dwindled. The number of eleven hundred has been brought down, as I learn, to only five hundred and this too, it is confidently hoped, will further go down in the near future thus reducing the Wilson College to the position of a third rate Arts College. It is indeed hopeful to find that where formerly the Superintendent had to disappoint many a student for want of accommodation there is now an unusually large number of vacant rooms in the New Residency. I understand also there was no time limit this year for the admission of students and every student who failed to secure admission elsewhere on account of his poor total of marks, had no difficulty in getting it in this College. That will give your readers an idea of the intellectual calibre of the present students. There might be no doubt certain exceptions. Now-a-days nobody thinks of joining this College unless he is forced to do so by his poor circumstances or his poor intellect. Thus it will be easily seen that the prestige of this once famous College has now been remarkably shaken. Finally if we have not been able to get better results it is due to the all-absorbing movement of Non-Co-operation in which movement most of us were busily engaged for the most part of the year and are still engaged.—Yours, etc.,

MALABAR RELIEF FUND.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE CHRONICLE."

Sir,—With a view to fully convincing the public of Bombay and outside and disillusioning the minds of some of our Mohomedan friends of all their doubts in the matter, I seek the hospitality of your columns to give publicity to the following statement.

The Malabar Central Relief Committee at Calicut is entirely humanitarian and non-sectarian in its mission of relief, and the only object of our work is to alleviate the sufferings of the poor refugees by giving them first the necessary protection, and then affording them every possible help to tide over the present troubles. We are throughly free of all sectarian bias of every kind, and all those who are in need of help and come to us are sure to get the necessary facilities at our hand. Let me specially assure some of my Mahomedan friends who still have vague notions about it that on account of this policy of ours, no difference in the treatement between Muslim and non-Muslim refugees could possibly be made, and none whatsover is actually done. Our path is very clear to us, of giving relief to all needy refugees, and this we do to all as best as we can without any regard to their caste or creed. I am sure that those who have been following the reports of our work which, from time to time, I have sent to the Press will be convinced that our work bears out our intentions. I will specially call the attention of my friends to a deputation of the leading Moplah gentlemen of Calicut who, assisted by some of the prominent Hindu members of our Committee, waited upon Mr. E. F. Thomas, the Collector of the district, and the sympathetic hearing he accorded to them and the encouragement they received at his hands. As a result of this step the Committee was enabled to carry out its plan of helping the poor women and children of the Moplahs who needed such assistance, as soon as this need became apparent. Besides, the Committee is thoroughly representative in character, comprising as it does of Hindus, Mahomedans, Christians and Europeans. The attitude of the Government, then, on this matter is very clear as also the policy of our Committee, and there is no reason to imagine that our Committee's efforts in this direction of affording relief to the Muslim refugees of which I had specially referred to in my last report will be anything but otherwise. I remain.—Yours, etc.,

G. K. DEVADHAR.

THE PRINCE AND STUDENTS.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE CHRONICLE."

Sir,—When "an address from the Students at the University" crept in as an item in the revised programme arranged for the Prince's Reception, there was considerable commotion in the minds of the Students. The Students felt a national resentment as they did not know anything in the matter. On personally ascertaining from Prof. P.A. Wadia, I learnt that the address was voted by the Senate a year ago or so when the intended visit of the Prince was abandoned in favour of the Duke of Connaught's He further said that the address was on behalf of the Bombay University and not from Bombay Students. Principal Mckenzie of Wilson College made this point clear in the College B. A. class this morning and remarked regarding the misstatement in the Press by those "who ought to know better." Yet when these are personal statements it behoves us the Bombay students, to repudiate any connection with this address and to secure from those in authority the rectification of this misleading insertion, from the further "revised" programme.

Secondly, when the National Congress has refused to welcome the Prince owing to various weighty reasons, the students are sought to be brought as loyal votaries to participate in the so-called "Students' Day." The volume and intensity of feeling among the students, whether within or without the colleges, is entirely overlooked. The students well know that in their own country they are more or less a community under suspicion. To quote your own words written more than a year ago will not be out of place as they are so true and expressive; "Here in India, we have rigid rules for keeping the students to their legitimate interests and they lose healthy contact with the currents of thought that engage the attention of their brethern in other countries. It is, perhaps, due to the artificial conditions of life obtaining in India that students are by secret watchings and threatening rules made to keep their station. We recognise the vexatious position of principals and professors who have to keep conduct in line with administrative policy. In rapid developments of political thoughts and movements, the students become a precarious concern in subject countries. The smallest tremor of interest is an object of vigilant suspicion . . . . the fact is that the interest of the students—and they do take interest in the doings of the outside world—become in other countries automatically adjusted to the patriotic concerns of their Government." The relentless action taken against our fellow-students in the Punjab coupled with the various humiliations to which they were put is still fresh in our minds. The student world of India is how astir. In such a state of affairs the younger and the youthful generation of India cannot jubilate or take part in any function connected with this visit undertaken by purely political motives nor be forced to croak "Loyalty, Loyalty." It is therefore the bounden duty of the students to abstain from participating in the so-called "Students' Day" and by a dreary appearance effectively demonstrate the measure of our feelings and thereby also prove that we are not so completely "denationalised" in our colleges as we are made out to be by some, nor so callous and blind to the wrongs and needs of our dear Motherland.—Yours, etc.

"PRINCE & QUADRANGULAR CRICKET

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE CHRONICLE."

Sir,—I was pleased to read in your issue of the 6th instant the letter signed by Mr. Tairsee and others re. the Prince and Quadrangular matches. I am also of the same opinion and thinking of taking a similiar course, as I feel it inconsistant, as an Indian to participate in a function which is avowedly of a political significance.

I am a lover of cricket but I feel this is not the time for it.

I have the greatest pleasure in forwarding to you herewith the sum of Rs. 12 being the amount I was to have used in purchasing a right of admission to the Hindu shamiana. I should like the amount to be forwarded to the Congress Malabar Relief Fund.—Yours, etc.,

THE BOMBAY CHRONICLE.
Saturday, November 12, 1921.

THE VICEROY AND INDIAN PRINCES

Lord Reading is fast losing his reputation by belying the promises he gave as Viceroy-designate. His speech at the opening of the Princes Chamber is a tissue of indefensible anachronisms, of which we could never have believed him to be guilty but for the undeniable authority of the Associated Press. After the usual inanities, common on such occasions, His Excellency thought fit to give expression to opinions which, if they represent his own considered views, must be taken to mean a farewell to any hopes India might have entertained of the Reading regime undoing some of the most glaring mischiefs of the Chelmsford period. As in duty bound, the Viceroy dilated upon the forthcoming visit of the Prince, which, in spite of previous protestations to the contrary, is now seen to have a distinctly political purpose. We have always suspected the existence of the element of mischief and danger in the recent "Reforms" which sought to break up and divide the peoples of India by blending territorial electorates with class representation, and a special consultative chamber for the Princes along with a double chambered Indian Legislature. Does Lord Reading want a set-off against the growing sense of national self-respect among the peoples of India? The Viceroy knows that the people of India have solemnly resolved to boycott the visit of the Prince of Wales, because the Prince is made to support a tottering and discredited system—without bearing the least ill-will personally to the Prince. Are the remarks of His Excellency to the Princes to be taken as a challenge to the people that the six hundred odd Princes at least will participate in the visit, even though the three hundred millions may refrain from it, that they will consider it of grave political significance, even though the people are assured the visit is strictly non-political? No other Prince of Wales, Lord Reading declared, has more completely established himself and at so early an age in the general heart of the Empire. This is quite true, but that is one more reason why the visit of such a Prince should have been arranged at a more propitious time.

The other observations of His Excellency were equally unhappy. On the agenda of the House there was the question of giving protection to the Princes against attacks from the Press in British India. After announcing that the Government of India had decided to annul their repressive press laws, and that they could not very well preserve a law on the Statute-book for the benefit of the Indian Princes which had been found unnecessary for His Majesty,—it is unfortunate that even a statesman of Lord Reading's judicial acumen identifies the bureaucratic system with His Majesty the King—the Viceroy went on to say that the question of protection in another form to their Highnesses would require careful consideration, and assured them that the question was engaging his earnest attention. Lord Reading has not specifically promised another special legislation for the exclusive benefit of the misbehaving Princes; but these expressions almost foreshadow some such concession being granted in the near future to this most undeserving section of the Indian people. Is Lord Reading so utterly ignorant, after eight months of residence in this country, as not to know that it is rather the Press in British India, which needs special protection from the autocratic tendencies of their Highnesses. The Maharaja of Gwalior, for example, has stopped almost every Nationalist Indian paper from entering his "Dominions," thus entailing considerable loss upon the proprietors of the papers thus penalised as well as on his "subjects" who get only the coloured news the State authorities choose to impart to them through the Anglo-Indian Press. Is this a case which His Excellency would consider sufficient for granting special protection to the Prinees? And there are hundreds of such instances. We shall not refer to the latest achievement in high-handedness of the Chancellor of the Princes Chamber, the Maharajah of Bikaner. The Government of India have in the past more than once used the Indian Princes to do jobs, which public opinion in British India was too strong to allow them to do in British territory, with absolute impunity. Is this proposed special legislation to be made the excuse of such doings against the Indian Press in future? Lord Reading is surrounded by men who would not help him realise that the best traditions of the Indian Press make the publicists in India still labour under the not seldom mistaken chivalry of not attacking those who cannot openly defend themselves, and that in consequence personal attacks against Princes have been far too few in comparison to the tales and proofs of intolerable misrule of which some of the Indian Princes are accused. His Excellency regretted the absence of the Rao of Cutch, against whose administration there have been the most serious allegations, still uncontradicted, yet uninvestigated. Do Lord Reading's Government propose to protect such rulers though their people suffer grievous wrongs and even though they may be entrusted with Indian and Imperial duties which reasonably expose them to public critism.

But, above all, there is the consideration of the future of the "subjects" of the States. The system of personal autocracy is still too deep-rooted in these territories to permit a reasonable hope of an independent Press being born therein. And yet the people of India cannot achieve the officially admitted goal of their political evolution unless the "subjects" of the States are made to march hand in hand with their brethren in the British territories. Without the help of an intelligent, independent, and enlightened Press this is impossible. We earnestly impress upon His Excellency's Government not to give undue importance to the letter or the spirit of the Alwar resolution in the Princes' mad attempt to seek protection where none is wanted. The Government of India have, in the past, pleaded the excuse of treaty obligations with the Princes to cloak the chronic misrule of local potentates and to postpone the realisation of overdue reforms in the "Native" territories. But often they have themselves violated the spirit and the letter of the self-same treaties whenever it suited their convenience to treat them as mere scraps of paper. Let them not at this time of the day make new obligations which are unjust in their principle and impossible in their observance. Let them not now undertake legislation which can only be carried out at the cost of the political future of India. Let them, in fine, not identify themselves with a class of people the preposterous claims of many of whom for special treatment will precipitate the bitterest class distinctions and class animosities, and render the Government of India partisans where they well might remain impartial.

Notes of the Day.

The Washington Conference.

The much-advertised Disarmament Conference will have opened at Washington to-day, but it is exceedingly doubtful if the results will be at all in proportion to the need of the world for an understanding on this vital question. The promoters of the idea have been actuated no doubt by the best of motives; and, as the Americans could very effectively use the unspoken threat of out-arming any European Power, the rulers of the old world had no alternative but to pretend to fall in with the notion, and then trust to luck or diplomacy to frustrate its realisation. There is every reason to apprehend, both from the personnel of the Conference and from its agenda, that the tragedy of Wilson is about to be repeated, owing chiefly to the unfamiliarity of American statesmen with the crooked ways of European diplomacy. The League of Nations has proved futile because the Central Powers of Europe found no place on its councils, no voice in its deliberations. It is futile to expect that the Washington Conference would achieve better results, as its promoters do not yet seem to have learnt the lesson of this failure of the League. The representation of other Powers is on paper magniloquent enough, but that very factor must render genuine lovers of universal peace and reduction of armaments extremely apprehensive as nothing good can be expected from the Lloyd George-cum-Briand type of representatives. They go to the Conference committed to the principle of national pre-eminence in matters military. They cannot assent to the reduction of armaments except of course for the already disarmed Germany. And that their "deliberations" may not be obstructed or their plans frustrated they have managed to secure from the British Empire particularly men, who, like the Right Hon. Srinivas Sastri, will be ready to turn themselves into automata for the benefit of their masters or patrons, however much the people they are supposed to represent are against the decisions they concur in

No Reason for Optimism.

Hopeless as is the present composition of the Conference for any substantial scheme of universal disarmament, we might have felt reason to be more optimistic if its agenda did not bristle with points involving irreconcilable difference of opinion. The President of the United States has, indeed, proved his moderation by declaring that even the desirability of universal disarmament might at this time be questioned. But this moderation may savour to many observers of the growing Imperialistic tendencies of this prosperous Western republic a threat to the future peace of the world. America has so far concerned itself with only Cuba and the Philippines as evidence of its nascent Imperialism. She has succeeded in keeping herself free from the dynastic tangles of European peoples; but to those who can see ahead a little, that is no guarantee of her complete isolation from foreign influences, when the world comes to be governed by other influences than those against which she had so far set her face. Bolshevist Russia, to illustrate our meaning, has had no bitterer foe than Republican France, because the petty peasant proprietor of France has been unable to appreciate the grandeur of Lenin's socialism. May it not be that the American proves equally intractable to accept radical changes in other English-speaking countries, because America has become the exile's home for the discredited idea of the career open to talents? But quite apart from this legitimate consideration of very probable future developments, there are obvious difficulties in the way of the Conference becoming a success. The American statesmen are reported to have prepared far-reaching agenda for the consideration of the Conference, and there is every probability that the British claim of the "Mistress of the Seas" will come in for some bitter discussion. America has always insisted on the claims of the Neutrals to "Freedom of the Seas" in times of war and England has as pertinaciously resisted it and in 1918 she succeeded in inducing Mr. Wilson to waive one of the most important of his ill-fated fourteen points to enable an armistice to be at all concluded. The United States took its revenge in an unprecedented naval programme, which, when completed, would guarantee to the American trader the freedom which England had denied him so far. Will England concede this point at the Conference? For without it, we see no chance of successful deliberations.

The Anglo-Japanese Alliance.

The Anglo-Japanese Alliance is another of the stumbling blocks in the path of the Conference. Even the Imperial Conference, which was primarily concerned with it, could arrive at no definite decision on this question of the renewal of an alliance, which is as much a threat to the United States as it is an insult to India. With every reason to take pride in the growth of an Asiatic Power, we cannot help remarking that Japan's short career has not shown her statesmen to be quite free from the common European failing of robbing, whenever opportunity permitted, one's weaker neighbours. The assassination of Hara intensifies these fears. That Japanese designs are understood and resented in the United States and Canada is an open secret, and England's championship of a Power which is viewed with so much distrust by some of the most important participators in the Conference does not augur well for its success. These are the more important subjects on the agenda. The promoters of the Conference, wisely apprehensive of its results, have sought not to embarrass its discussions by including other still more important for the rejuvenation of a war-worn world. But because the Conference will not discuss the question of international indebtedness, or of the economic recovery of Germany and the other European Powers not to speak of the pacification of the Near East, it does not follow that any of these questions is either not connected with the principal idea of the Conference, or that it is one whit less important for the peace of the world. Even so, the success of the Conference seems to be a page in the chapter of accidents. The participants in the Conference are working on a fundamentally false basis of shrouding their views and intentions in mystery, or raising the veil only in order to indulge in meaningless platitudes. If they at all desire to establish peace and promote friendly feeling between the peoples of the world; if they are sincere in their regrets at the growing burdens of armaments, which not only dislocate the finances of countries, like India, and thus render it almost impossible to take in hand the most urgent problems of social reforms;—the delegates to the Conference must for the time being discard their national predilections and consider each question before them on its own intrinsic merits, thus rendering an agreement more easy to achieve and more lasting when achieved, for the reduction of armaments in the first place and, consequently, for the enduring peace of the world.

Indian Merchants and Prince.

The members of the Indian Merchants' Chamber and Bureau will meet again to-day to confirm or condemn the action of their Committee regarding the presentation of an address to His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales. The meeting on Wednesday gave clear indication that the majority of the mercantile community is against the presentation of the address. Unfortunately, the real issue—whether the address should be presented or not—was obscured by what, in our opinion, was an irrelevant discussion about the procedure adopted by the Committee. We realise that an adverse decision will be regarded as a vote of censure against the Committee. This the Committee, as we stated on Wednesday, amply deserves. And the need of a vote of censure is all the greater in view of the revelation made at the meeting that the address was despatched to the Government after the requisition against it was sent to the Committee. This is a most deplorable instance of defiance of public opinion and is one more reason why the members of the Chamber should assert themselves unequivocally and emphatically, without wasting time by allowing themselves to be influenced by any conceivable consideration but the only relevant one, namely, that the vital interests of the country demand a complete boycott of the Prince's visit.

The Prince and Students.

The Registrar of Bombay University writes:—

"Sir,—As there appears to be some misapprehension as regards the address that is to be given to His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales on the 22nd instant at the University, I have to request you to make it known that the address that is to be presented is the address by the Senate of the University and not by or on behalf of the students. The students are merely invited to be present at the function so as to afford His Royal Highness the opportunity of meeting and conversing with the students of the University."

We are glad to publish this letter. The "misapprehension" is, however, not accidental. The "Times of India" published on Monday the revised official programme of the Prince's visit, which included as one of the items an "Address from the Students at the University." Somebody in the Secretariat blundered as usual. However that may be, the duty of the students is clear. They must boycott the function.

Police Methods.

Can the members of the City Police find no more profitable duty within Fort than to harass the poor fruit and vegetable-sellers in Dwarkadas Lane? The persecution of these vendors stopped three or four years ago, but it has been revived during the past fortnight and on every alternate day Police underlings may be seen pouncing upon half a dozen or more poor women and boys selling vegetables in this particular lane and hauling them up before the bench of honorary magistrates and getting them fined eight annas to a rupee each for alleged "obstruction to traffic." We do not know if the new head of the Police is aware of the fact, which can easily be ascertained from the records of Bombay, and from respectable residents of Fort, that for a century past in this particular lane in Fort the selling of vegetables and fruits has been carried on without obstruction to any human or vehicular traffic and with material advantage not only to the residents of the lane in question, but to all Fort residents. The lane is one of the most unfrequented localities in Fort and there is hardly any traffic worth speaking of. There is only one house which opens directly into the lane, the others having entrances in the adjoining lanes. Hence, it is sheer perversion of language to speak of "traffic" being "obstructed" in this lane by the vegetable-sellers, who assemble there only in the mornings. Owing to the scarcity of convenient vegetable marts in Fort, the residents of the locality find it most convenient to buy their daily stock of fruit and vegetables in this lane. What the Police have in view in preventing the sale of vegetables in this lane is more than we can make out. Have the Police received any complaint from any section of the public of Fort against these vendors? We know, of course, that the palms of a certain section of the police always itch when they find poor and illiterate people eking out their livelihood in some manner which can be made amenable to Police "control," direct or indirect. But we hope the Commissioner of Police realises that it is undesirable in the extreme that he should allow the Police to interfere in matters which cause no inconvenience to any body, but which, on the other hand, are helpful to the public. He ought to put an end forthwith to the scandals of the daily harassments which are going on in Dwarkadas Lane. We understand that yesterday as many as nine vegetable-sellers were arrested by the Police. If the Police Commissioner has any excuse for his sudden campaign against these poor people he ought to make it public. The public of Fort are perfectly scandalised by the zooloom of the Police underlings and will not tolerate it if it continues for any length of time.

TARIFF COMMISSION.

IMPERIAL PREFERENCE.

(BY AN ECONOMIST.)
III*

Dealing with the question of consumers the Tariff Commission have shown their solicitude by putting several questions as to the level of the prices. Why should prices in this country increase to the full extent of the duty in all cases? In fact it is anticipated that rather than not to sell to India at all, the existing manufacturers of the United Kingdom would think it much wiser to try and reduce price and bear a portion of the duty. They will further attempt, when hard-pressed, to secure economy and efficiency in manufacture. Thus a portion of the duty would be wiped out in these economies of manufacture and in the shutting up of some of the more inefficient producers. A portion may be borne by those who would rather continue working at a smaller profit than closing down. A portion may be borne by the same foreign producer who will attempt to revise his method of selling to India and who would jealously cut out all the superfluous intermediaries who are at present parasites on the Indian trade. For the rest, it must be admitted that prices may rise to some extent but in no case as much as the full extent of the duty. We are assuming competition in the production of the article in the foreign market and wherever there is competition also in the Indian market, the chances of prices rising to the full extent of their duty are still smaller. Defective selling organisations are always more responsible for rasing prices beyond actual duties and these defects in selling organisations will gradually tend to disappear when conditions more competitive are established. So far as the consumer is concerned the effect is not altogether bad. In the case of some of the more expensive shoddy foreign articles, after which poor people are hankering out of sheer imitation, they would be very much better out of it. In other cases greater care would be taken of the articles already in hand and the repairing and renovating all other articles would be possible wherever the articles are made of material which does not totally wear out.

Cloth Prices.

On the other hand, in the case of cloth which is the standard case on which the whole fight is raging we can confidently expect that local effort would soon reduce prices to the consumer. The cotton factories of Bombay are even now competing one against the other and competing also as a whole against the factories in Ahmedabad and elsewhere and if a heavy duty is put against Lancashire goods, Lancashire is bound to bear a very large portion of the duty rather than cease selling to India. Such increase in price as may result temporarily for a very short time is bound to lead to larger and larger capital being invested in the spinning and weaving industry in India until for most of the requirements of the country in the couiser cloth, foreign importation may either cease or can only be carried on at prices which are reasonable and to the great advantage of the revenues of the State. Further, if the community as a whole passed on from the use of finer to the use of less fine, cotton cloth if instead of wearing a dhotie of 60s and 80s counts even, the better class wore dhoties of 20s and 40s counts, who would regard that as a calamity for the country? So far as the poorer class of consumer in this country are concerned, what he wants and what he is using is either produced locally on the handlooms in his own surroundings or is produced cheapest from the factories in India. Those who live in towns would be astonished if they were told that the percentage of population who wears any cloth finer than that which can be woven from 20s count is extremely small. The whole adjustment in the matter of industry would depend on the mobility of capital, mobility of enterprise and the keenness of business organisation so far as it applied to textile. In the textile industry at least Indians have shown themselves supremely capable. That is an established tradition and every factory which is working in India could easily expand without dislocation. As a matter of fact, which cotton concern has not got in hand some schemes for such expansion already? Such schemes as there are in view would be put forward with astonishing rapidity as soon as there is a moral certainty of protection against dumping from Japan.

An Irrelevant Issue.

Against a genuine system of protection for Indian industries well-thought out, and sufficiently elastic so as to permit of adjustments whenever they are required in national interests, the other perfectly irrelevant issue which is attempted to be brought in is that of imperial preference. This issue has to be examined with great care in order to show how very untenable it is from the Indian stand-point. It is quite true that the imposition of tariffs as between small populations is very harmful. Thus, if the States of India all levied tariffs against one another and against goods coming from British India, it would be economically unsound and the only sufferers would be the people of the country; also if Bengal levied a tariff against Bombay and vice versa it would be harmful and unacceptable. Where economically the country is a unit the tariff system should be the same and if a complete economic unit is divided into two or three different political authorities, it is an advantage for them to come together at all events for the purposes of tariff into a common tariff union. This was observed and carried out in the German Empire owing to the genius of Bismarck in the famous "Zollverein". Because this is the only sound principle, the contrary of it must be rejected as unsound. Where con-

BOYCOTT THE PRINCE'S VISIT.

OBSERVE COMPLETE HARTAL.

NO ILL-WILL TOWARDS THE PRINCE.

MESSAGE FROM MAULANA MAHOMED ALI.

PUBLIC MEETING AT MARWARI VIDYALAYA.

Under the auspices of the Girgaum District Congress Committee a public meeting was held on Friday evening at Marwadi Vidyalaya in connection with the "Boycott of the Prince's visit," Mrs. Naidu presiding.

MAULANA MOHAMED ALI'S MESSAGE.

Mrs. Sarojini Naidu at the outset said that when she was in Karachi she had an interview with Maulana Mohamed Ali who has sent his message for them all. He said: "Attain Swarajya soon, and open my prison doors. Follow Mahatma Gandhi, our General, faithfully, and for the sake of our cause, like a faithful soldier lay down your life too, if it is necessary at the front."

She said that it was a part of the Swarajya's soldiers' duty to boycott the Prince's visit, and all the functions connected therewith and follow faithfully the General, Mahatma Gandhi.

MR. B. N. MOTIWALA.

Mr. Motiwala, then addressing the meeting said that in all things that they did they had to consult their conscience whether what they did was right or not. They had not to follow anything and everything blindly. Mahatma Gandhi had given them a splendid advice and that was to boycott the Prince's visit in its entirety. Hon. Sir Dadabhoy some time back had told them that to boycott the Prince's visit was tantamount to a sacriloge. He (Sir Dadabhoy) said the English Empire was based on justice, righteousness and truth. The speaker said that was an absolutely incorrect statement. They (Indians) had to show that if the British Empire was based on truth, righteousness and justice, the Empire had to do justice to the Punjab and Khilafat wrongs first, and to give them absolute Swarajya. If the Empire was based on righteousness it should stop payment of Dyer's pension from the Indian revenue. Mr. Jamnadas Dwarkadas had brought a resolution in this regard in the Legislative Assembly but the most important part of it was deleted on the advice of Sir William Vincent. It was thus made entirely worthless and useless. This was the splendid work of our cooperator representatives.

A FORCED VISIT.

Continuing Mr. Motiwala said that the Rowlatt Act was passed in the teeth of public opposition, and nothing had yet been done to repeal it. There was famine in India, Malabar and Khulna. People were starving to death and in spite of all this, millions of rupees would be spent on the Prince's visit. They had nothing to say against the person of the Prince, but they had to protest against his visit which was forced upon them. It was the desire of the Prince that money should not be lavished upon functions connected with his visit. He (the speaker) asked how money was spent from the public contributions to alleviate the sufferings of the poor? Mr. N. Dumasia had given his Rs. 25,000 and Sir Sassoon J. David Rs. 40,000 and so have many other wealthy citizens contributed their quota. How much of this, he asked, has the authorities given to alleviate the suffering of the poor? The Viceroy and Lord Reading had told them that the Prince was the future King and, therefore, it was essential that he (the Prince) should study for himself the real state of India. But according to the Constitution of England. Parliament was the real governing power, and if the test of the Prince's power they wanted to see, let him ask the authorities that he would like to see Mahatma Gandhi, and see if he was really allowed this by them. Not that he would not be allowed his wish but if he persisted to see the town he would be conveyed like a prisoner as they had done with Mr. Montagu when he was in India. He advised the Prince to visit the Jallianwala Bagh, Chandpur, Chittagong, and have personal interview with Mahatma Gandhi, the Ali brothers and Dr. Kitchlew. If he did so, he would learn the true state of the country for himself.

Referring to the Bombay Municipality the speaker said the elected representatives of the taxpayers had failed them thrice in the short space of one year, viz: During the Duke of Connaught's visit, Lord Reading's arrival, and the Prince's visit. Finally he exhorted all to support Mahatma Gandhi when he embarked on Civil Disobedience in Bardoli Taluka from the 23rd instant.

MR. J. M. MEHTA.

Mr. J. M. Mehta then, addressing the meeting, said that if the Prince really wanted to see the real state of things for himself he should attend the Congress Working Committee's meeting on the 22nd of this month and also attend the National Congress at Ahmedabad. If he did so, he would at once go back to England by aeroplane and advise his father to give India Swarajya at once. In that case, India would welcome him heartily. But, of course, it was a foregone conclusion that he would not do so. The Prince desired that money should not be wasted on addresses, but be spent on philanthropic works. This desire was indeed pious and commendable. But the same pious advice was given by the Directors of the East India Company to their Governors of this country when they said: "Rule wisely, rule justly, rule well, but send more money." (Laughter.).

INDIA IN MOURNING.

Referring to the acute tate of feelings in regard to the boycott of the Prince's visit, the speaker said in the Maidan nobody was going to hire any shops. Even if they offered free nobody would have them, except a few European firms. The reason was that India was in mourning and not in jovial mood. The authorities have been lavishing money by lakhs for illuminations and tamashas. Even Government House had got rupees eighty-one thousand from the public revenue to entertain the Prince, for the Governor was not going to spend it from his own pocket. He exhorted the audience not only to boycott all the functions connected with the Prince's visit but also to close all doors and windows of their houses if they happened to be on either the G. I. P. or the B. B. & C. I. Railway lines and the Prince's train passed from that way.

MR. BHARUCHA.

Mr. B. F. Bharucha then exhorted his co-religionists and advised the Parsi community to be loyal to God first; then to His Prophets and their teachings, then to the country, and, lastly, to the King. He said the real King was God, Who was King of Kings and the Lord of Lords and Who created them, and the second important thing was the country which gave them birth. The real loyalty of Parsis consisted in this doctrine.

MR. SIDHWA.

Mr. R. K. Sidhwa of Sindh then advised to observe a complete Hartal on the 17th instant. He regretted the arbitrary action of the Bombay Municipality in presenting an address to the Prince in spite of public opposition. He cited an instance of the Karachi Municipality in which the authorities wanted the Municiality to spend lakhs of rupees but the Managing Committee sanctioned Rs. 25,000, the Corporation reduced it to Rs. 10,000. One Corporator moved an amendment for Rs. 2,000, and another member moved that no address be given at all—and all this from the hands of Cooperator corporators. (Laughter.).

MRS. NAIDU.

After several other speakers had addressed the meeting, Mrs. Naidu, in winding up the proceedings, said that the Prince was a genial, loving and sympathic gentleman. When she was in England she had seen him passing through the streets and at that time she used to say to herself that he was a jewel of India. During the last war he used to go hand-in-hand with ordinary soldiers. India had, therefore, nothing to say against his person, but against the system of administration which was responsible for the waitings of the widows, for the crawling orders of the Punjab, for the sufferings of hundreds of youths who were toiling in jail like ordinary criminals and for the misfortunes of millions. There were thousands upon thousands who were starving to death of famine and plague. Then there were wrongs of the Punjab and Khilafat. Until these were righted. India would not be in a mood for receiving the Prince. (Applause.).

A vote of thanks to the chair terminated the proceedings.

Sir John Swanwick Bradbury's report on the Wiesbaden agreement may cause fresh sources of the Anglo-French estrangement. Reuter cables from Paris that the newspapers generally regret the publication as inopportune. Some, notably the "Figaro", are surprised that the British Government should profit by the absence of M. The deliberations of the Ulster Cabinet were resumed at the Savoy Hotel this morning. At the close of the meeting a communique was issued stating "The Prime Minister of Northern Ireland, on behalf of the Cabinet, wishes it to be clearly understood that he cannot surrender Ulster's rights." Prior to the meeting, it is learned that the British Government's proposals, which were promised by Mr. Lloyd George, did not reach Sir James Craig.

It is by no means definite whether the Conference of the Government's representatives and the Ulster Cabinet Ministers will be held this evening as was arranged.

QUESTIONS IN COMMONS.

(Reuter's Telegram.)

LONDON, Nov. 9.
Recd. 7-45 a.m., Nov. 12.

Questioned in the House of Commons whether a large consignment of tea from Ceylon to France and diverted to Britain on account of traffic congestion had received the benefit of preference Mr. Young pointed out that the preference applied to goods grown produced or manufactured in the Empire and consigned from a part of the Empire to Britain. The case mentioned did not satisfy these conditions.

THE CRY OF SUFFERING TURKS.

WILL IT REMAIN UNANSWERED?

TURKEY--LEADER OF MUSLIMS & DEFENDER OF ASIA.

"HELP HER AS BEST AS YOU CAN."

POWERFUL APPEAL FOR ANGORA FUND

Under the auspices of the lime and sand merchants of Bombay a public meeting was held, on Friday night, in aid of the Angora Fund, admission being by tickets. All the stalls were fully occupied, and there was a very large audience. A lot of costly brocaded clothes were collected for being sent to the Smyrna sufferers.

On the motion of Mr. H. H. S. Khatri, seconded by Mr. Mojawalla, Mr. B. F. Bharucha was elected to the chair, owing to the absence of Mr. Chotani out of Bombay.

MR. BHARUCHA.

Mr. Bharucha said it was their duty to send silver bullets to the Turks in order to strengthen their cause not only against the Greeks, but also against other European nations.

MRS. NAIDU.

Mrs. Naidu said it was not the first time she had come before them to ask them to do some sacrince for the Khilafat. Their leaders were now in jail for their Khilafat cause. She had run to Karachi a few days ago when she went to the court only to see her friends now in jail squatting on the ground, because their chairs were taken away from them. She was given a seat on the platform but she went to her friends and set with them for about two hours. On the next day Mahomad Ali insisted on going to the mosque to say his prayers and he had hot words with the judge on that account. Mahomed Ali had told her as he was going to the jail that they should get Swaraj and then liberate them. Shaukat Ali, on the other hand, had told them to keep their "eyes front" and do their duty to their country, whatever might happen. Shaukat Ali had told her to give the message that the Moslems should help their suffering brethren in Angora and that they should make every sacrifice for their brethren there. She appealed to the audience to unloose their purse strings and help their suffering co-religionists in Angora who had suffered too much for so many years. The atrocities the Greeks had committed on their Turkish opponents, on the women and children there, were unbelievable and most atrocious and was it not the duty of the Moslems in this country to help the Turks by every means in their power? Turkish women and children had suffered sorely at the hands of Greeks and it was the duty of Indians to help them and thus show to the world that wherever there were Moslems—whether in China, Arabia, or Asia—the Moslems were one and that the cry of the sufferings of Turks would not remain unanswered.

APPEAL IN NAME OF CHILDREN AND WOMEN.

Continuing Mrs. Naidu said if Moslems wished to defend their cause, to raise it to glory to protect it against its enemies, then they should think that no sacrifice was too great for the sake of their religion. In the name of the Turkish children, and women. She appealed to them to help Turkey.

When the Prince would come to this country the Moslems should sit in their houses and pray to God to help their cause and never attend any of the pomps and shows organised in his name. As long as they had not gained success in their efforts, their work could not be called complete. She hoped her appeal would not go in vain, and for the sake of their Turkish brethren they would give as much as possible.

MR. J. M. MEHTA.

Mr. J. M. Mehta said that with the help of Indian soldiers the British had defeated the Turks, and Indians had every to right to speak for Turkey; Indians had every right to make their words heard. The British Government had broken their promises to the Turks and decision Indians. The same treatment had been given to Indians for the last 150 years. Government had promised them many things, but they had never kept their promises. Let them help their Moslem brothers as best as they could.

BOYCOTT PRINCE'S VISIT.

Speaking about the Prince, he said it was the duty of Indians to remain indoors and take no part in the festivities and functions. Whatever might happen let them not get out of their houses and honour the Prince by their presence. As long as their grievances were not redressed it was their duty not to have anything to do with the bureaucracy.

MR. KHADILKER.

Mr. K. P. Khadilker said had it not been for the war between the Turks and Greeks, Turkey would have been under the thumb of England; Turkey would have had to live by the sufferance of England or France. But Turkey by her valour, by her sacrifice, by her self-reliance, had proved to the world that she had a right to live and that it was not an easy thing to defeat her. Therefore, they must thank the Greeks for waging this senseless war against the Turks. Had it not been for this war, Turkey would have been an appenage of a European power but now she was the leader of the Moslems all over the world. Turkey was not only capable of defending herself, but she would also have the strength to defend Asia against Europe. Let them pray that such a day would soon come.

MR. JERAJANI.

Mr. Vithaldas Jerajani said he was to see so many Moslems clad in Khadi. he had also heard Moslem children shouting out that foreign clothes should be destroyed and that Swadeshi Khaddar should be worn. The Khilafat cause was as much for the Hindus to wise, as for the Moslems. They were both in the same boat and their fortunes were equally in danger. Out of sheer shame they must give up their foreign clothes for the uplift of their own country. He appealed to them to use the charkha and thus win their Khilafat cause. Let them cast off their foreign clothes and use only Swadeshi hand made clothes.

Mr. Incisheri and others also spoke.

GOLDEN TEMPLE OF AMRITSAR.

PUNJAB GOVT. COMMUNIQUE.

(Associated Press.)

LAHORE, Nov. 10.

The Punjab Government has issued a long press communique in the course of which it gives a short history of the management of the Golden Temple of Amritsar and states as follows:—

It was ascertained that Shiromani the Prabandhak Committee was likely to bring pressure to bear upon the manager of the Golden Temple (a functionary who was appointed by Government) to surrender to it the keys of the Golden Temple treasury. On October 29th the Executive Committee of that body actually passed a resolution that the keys should be given by the manager to the President of the Committee. This attempt by a body which has not hitherto received lawful authority to control the Golden Temple or its treasure, to obtain possession of keys while negotiations were still pending which had for their object the ultimate settlement of a scheme of management by a qualified court, compelled Government to take action and the Deputy Commissioner upon Government's instructions, called upon the Manager, through an Extra Assistant Commissioner, to deliver the keys to him. The manager made over the keys in obedience to the demand and they have been deposited in Government treasury for safe custody.

It is the object of the Government, as has already been explained, to divest itself in a lawful manner by an institution of a suit for settlement of a scheme of management of all responsibility for the Golden Temple. The keys of the treasury have been deposited in the Government treasury because there was good reason to suppose that they were likely to be seized by a body which is not lawfully entitled to the possession of them. They will be held on until orders of a competent court have been passed upon the suit which it is hoped, will be instituted for the settlement of a scheme of management.

OUR REWARD IS COMING.

THE ORDEAL & ACHIEVEMENT

PREMIER ON EMPIRE'S PROBLEMS.

(REUTER'S TELEGRAM.)

LONDON, Nov. 9.
Recd. 7-45 a.m., Nov. 11.

Mr. Lloyd George, in his speech at the Guildhall banquet, described the Washington Conference as the rainbow in the sky but it had not come too soon for the countries were amassing fresh engines of war which were becoming a hundred times more destructive. Disarmament was the only road to safety.

The Premier recalled that last year he invited the people of Ireland to come into a free partnership in the British Empire as equals and there was a better prospect of the invitation being heeded to-day than there had been for years. He said, we were approaching a critical stage but he would say nothing to make the agreement difficult. The faults were not all on one side; each of the three parties had prejudices but a nation without prejudices was not worth much. All the parties must prepare to make concessions; if each approached the conference determined not to budge, that would produce acclamations from their supporters but would not lead to peace and if the Conference did not lead to peace we should have a very great burden to carry for, in the first place, our forces would have to be doubled. Mr. Lloyd George added that this was the supreme moment in the history of our splendid land. We were confronted by the most trying times the ministers had ever faced. The country was burdened with the largest debt incurred by any nation which had produced a terrible crises but he believed that we had seen the worst. The force of the cyclone was spent and although improvement might be slow it was sure. Work alone would fill the depleted tills. The dazed slackness which had overcome Labour throughout the world was passing away. British credit was firm and had not cracked and we had never rushed into the wild foolish policy of inflation, we had faced burdens and paid our way; we had taken our punishment when it was due and our reward was coming. He pointed out that Britain's exports for October were the best since March.

Viscount Curzon giving the toast of the foreign ministers declared that all eyes were turned with eager expectation to the Washington; unity and international action was the sole remedy for the evils from which we were all suffering.

A DEPUTATION TO MR. CHURCHILL

COLONIAL SECRETARE'S PROPOSALS OUTLINED.

(REUTER'S TELEGRAM.)

LONDON, Nov. 10.
Recd. 12-15 p.m., Nov. 11.

The necessity for more rapid development of the Empire's resources with a view to finding openings for our millions of surplus population and new markets for British goods was emphasised by a deputation representing the Empire Development Parliamentary Committee which waited on Mr. Churchill to-day.

The Colonial Secretary sympathised with the suggestions and enlisted the Committee's support in getting through the House of Commons' next session some of his own proposals which he outlined to them.

ADJOURNMENT OF PARLIAMENT.

OBJECTION ON GROUNDS OF INDIAN AFFAIRS.

(REUTER'S TELEGRAM.)

LONDON, Nov. 10.
Recd. 12-15 p.m., Nov. 11.

In the House of Commons, on the motion for adjournment Col. Gretton protested against the decision to prorogue, instead of to adjourn, the parliament. He declared that such information as they had, showed that the affairs in India were not improving but rather growing worse and a crisis might occur before the reassembly of the Parliament.

Mr. Chamberlain said he would not attempt to discuss the matter but remarked that Parliament could be summoned at any time and would be summoned, if necessary.

BRITISH CONCESSION TO INDIAN ARMY OFFICERS.

QUESTION IN COMMONS.

(REUTER'S TELEGRAM.)

LONDON, Nov. 9.

In the House of Commons Mr. Rupert Gwynne asked why the officers of the Indian Army who were due to retire but who had been retained during the war were not allowed to draw pension in addition to the pay and allowances for this period the same as the British officers.

Mr. Montagu replied that he was communicating with the Government of India whether there were sufficient grounds for granting Indian Army officers the concession, same as British officers.

ITALY & ANGORA.

CONCLUSION OF SEPARATE AGREEMENT.

A CATEGORICAL DENIAL.

(REUTER'S TELEGRAM.)

LONDON, Nov. 10.
Recd. 8-30 p.m., Nov. 11.

In the House of Commons, at question time, Mr. Harmsworth said that the Italian representative was at present at Angora, but the Italian Foreign Minister had categorically denied that Italy intended to conclude a separate agreement with Angora, and he assured the British Government that they would be informed of everything that occurred at Angora. The British Government had no information beyond the newspaper statement from Athens that the Christians in Cilicia had been given twenty days' notice to leave the country. Government, on many occasions, had reminded the French Government of their obligations to the Christian minorities and recently pointed out that the safeguards contained in the Franco-Kamalist Agreement would be inadequate. A reply from the French Government to these representations had hitherto not been received.

FERID BEY.

ANGORA'S ACCREDITED REPRESENTATIVE IN PARIS.

(REUTER'S TELEGRAM.)

LONDON, Nov. 10
Recd. 12-15 p.m., Nov. 11.

Paris.—A telegram from Angora says the Assembly has approved the appointment of Ferid Bey to represent Angora in Paris, and a telegram from Constantinople says that Ferid Bey has left for Paris.

TARIFF COMMISSION.

munities as vastly separated in distance, race, language, natural resources as the various units of the British Empire are, where they are politically also under different administrations not altogether friendly with one another as South Africa and India are, they are not a complete economic unit and it would be equally unsound to try and adopt a single tariff policy for all. Writers of history have admitted that the British Empire is an accidental conglomeration spread out in a most unusual manner all over the world. The so-called link of the Crown and the British Parliament is getting less and less common and is practically non-existent so far as the bulk of the Self-governing Colonies are concerned. The only other common link, viz. that of language and race between the various Self-governing Colonies of England is absolutely non-existent so far as India is concerned. There is, therefore, nothing natural and spontaneous in the suggestion of the imperial preference except that it pleases the sweet will of John Bull and except that it is used by him so far as India is concerned as a means of getting an advantage in the Indian market to the detriment of Indian consumers. In other words the advocates of imperial preference, while being thoroughly lukewarm about protection to Indian industries, are wanting a protection for British industries in India without seeing the apparent conflict of logic and sentiment and without realising how unfair the suggestion involved in it is. Not only is there no spontaneous link between the vailous Colonies of England and India but there has been actual antogonism. It is absolutely certain that if Indian sentiment alone were dominant in the administration of this country India would have gone to war with South Africa long ago over the humiliations and the ill-treatment of her citizens in that ungrateful country, which built up its prosperity on Indian labour but which denied to Indians their legitimate rights of citizenship. In the case of Canada the discontent amongst the Sikh labourers who returned by "Komagata Maru" and the serious and deliberate disabilities imposed upon Indians are well-known. In England itself, no ship which has got more than a very small percentage of Indian crew is allowed to go inside and import and every ship with Indian crew is subjected to the most rigorous system of quarantine. No ship can touch or call at British ports, nor can it be surveyed or certified by Lloyd's or by a British Port Officer which has got an Indian captain. Indians, except those that are students and travellers, are repatriated to India at India's expense, whereas for the removal of undesirable white men from India to the United Kingdom, India pays.

An Unnatural Scheme.

While the dominant national sentiment of Indians is against any definite economic linking, the only real principle which should guide the decision on these issues must be of reciprocity. England and the Colonies have so little to give India in return for what they are asking that where British interests are seriously involved, the sentiment in the United Kingdom against imperial preference is still very great. Thus, England is not prepared to give preference to wheat even from Australia much less wheat from India against wheat from Argentine or Rumania where English capital is invested. The copper mines in Spain and the paper pulp mills of Sweden, where British money has gone in large bulk, could not be set aside in favour of similar imports from Canada. Even Indian tea could not be given any serious preference, notwithstanding the fact that some of the money in the tea industry in India has come from the United Kingdom, because if China's tea is penalised, China could retaliate in favour of the Americans or the Japanese in the matter of the purchase of manufactured goods. Official English opinion has urged that British markets in China must be protected at any cost. The trade of India with the Self-governing Colonies of the United Kingdom is so small that several of them are in the same stage of economic development as India. The figures of Indian trade with the Colonies are unduly swollen by the inclusion of trade between India and Ceylon. Ceylon is practically a part of the same economic system and same unit as India is and the separation of this trade and dumping it in the figures of trade between India and the Colonies is another official device for showing something which does not exist. Taking the Self-government Colones of the British Empire, no real advantage could be gained by India's trade with them and the prevalent sentiment against these Colonies is still hostile owing to their ill-treatment of Indian citizens. So far as the United Kingdom is concerned, the position is somewhat difficult. The United Kingdom is prepared to give any specific preference to India. It is a myth that India can borrow in the London market at a lower rate than others can. The latest sterling loan has proved that the United Kingdom's partiality for Indian loans is not because they love India but because the terms which India has prepared to pay are better than terms of anybody else. For one thing all the money is spent in the United Kingdom. In the matter of trade the United Kingdom has attempted to cut out foreign goods by artificial means. All Government orders are placed in the United Kingdom and parties dealing with America, Japan or Germany are not looked upon with favour by the British administration. Any merchants who are dealing with foreign countries have felt the difference in the attitude of banks, insurance companies, port and customs officers, steamship companies and others towards the consignments from foreign countries other than the United Kingdom. To say that since the import trade of India is much smaller with foreign countries than with United Kingdom and therefore the amount lost to Indian revenue or to the Indian consumer by giving a preference to the United Kingdom would not be large is something self-contradictory. The idea of preference must have either a political or economic basis. It has according to the advocates of Imperial preference little or no economic basis. It must therefore have political basis. We do not intend to deal with political issues. Nor will the Commission be justified in raising them in deciding what treatment India should give to the goods imported from the United Kingdom in contrast with goods imported from other foreign countries. India must have absolute freedom of purchase of the articles that she requires in the cheapest market in the world and if the United Kingdom is really cheap and can stand in competition with others, why are they so anxious to secure preference in the Indian tariff system? One is inclined to think that the extraneous causes which have led to the dominance of imports from the United Kingdom in the Indian trade are all crumbling down and people will no longer believe that either in quality or in price, the stuff from the United Kingdom is better than the stuff from elsewhere. Hence the attempt to bolster up by a perfectly artificial system the exploitation of the Indian market solely in the interests of British manufacturers. To the average Englishman it appears perfectly natural that India should produce raw materials and foodstuffs and Britain should manufacture these raw materials and this fellowship seems to be to his mind a system ordained as it were by the Almighty. To the Indian, on the other hand, it appears a most unnatural scheme. India, at one time a centre of magnificent handicrafts and arts, should in the opinion of the Indian be restored to that position of industrial self-sufficiency, i.e. India should manufacture the stuff which is produced in India and at all events for her own requirements should not be dependent on foreign supplies. There is thus neither economic nor political justification for imperial preference. The Empire, to the mind of the Indian, is a "damaged goods" trotted out now and then thinly to veil the present exploitation of India.

REGARD FOR INDIAN IN SOUTH AFRICA.

"MENACE TO WHITE SETTLERS."

SENSE OF SANITATION.

VIEWS OF MUNICIPAL ASSOCIATION CONGRESS.

"Rand Dail Mail" of Johannesburg writes:

The Asiatic question was the principal matter discussed at the annual Congress of the Transvaal Municipal Association to-day Two resolutions were on the agenda, one by the Carolina Village Council alleging the necessity for the alteration of the law to do away with the great danger which at present faces the European public with regard to the freedom of Asiatics to reside outside locations.

The resolutions pointed out that a judgment delivered in the Supreme Court of the Transvaal laid it down that while the Government has the right to appoint locations, there is no special machinery provided for forcing Asiatics to live in them, nor is it stated how those who refuse to go there are to be punished.

A SECOND RESOLUTION.

A second resolution by the Ventersdorp Village Council on the whole Asiatic question was also tabled. The first resolution was briefly moved by Mr. Dunbar, Town Clerk of Carolina, who was followed by Mr. R. L. Weir (Johannesburg,) who pointed out the difficulties that confronted them in dealing with this question, particularly the view taken in England with regard to the question of Indians in South Africa. He felt that English opinion had far too much weight in this particular matter, because the English people did not have any Asiatic menace in their own midst owing to the climate and could not possibly understand the menace which Indians constituted to white South Africans.

They heard something a good deal of talk about the danger of the natives, but in his opinion a far greater danger existed so far as the Indians were concerned. (Hear, hear.)

Speaking from a health point of view, he pointed out that Indians in the country did not live under sanitary conditions, and in this respect they were far worse than the natives. They could teach the raw abiriginal to conform to certain health conditions, but the Asiatic, with his own peculiar code of sanitation, was allowed to be beyond legislative pressure. The Malay Location of Johannesburg was the greatest sore of that town, and the Asiatics who carried on the fruit industry were becoming a danger to the health of the community They slept in the rooms in which their fruit was stowed, and hawked it from day to day among suburbban housewives in the best localities, carrying from the location any disease that might be going.

Mr. Weir bitterly criticised the encouragement given to this class of trade by Johannesburg women. He asserted that the Indian hawker was a dirty beast, and should be boycotted by all sections of the community, particularly by the women. He realised the convenience in many ways of these hawkers, but contended that the convenience that they afforded to the population should be met by a system of markets situated in differenet parts of the town, where fruit and vegetables could be easily purchased without danger of spreading diseases.

CONSIDERATION FOR ENGLAND.

He contended that South Africa was putting up with this dangerous menace out of consideration for the political feelings of the people of England, who did not understand our position, and the time had arrived when South Africans should put their foot down and declare themselves masters in their own house, and say that they would not have any Indians in South Africa. (Loud applause.),

Mr. Holmes (Ventorsdorp) said that the condition of affairs in the Western Transvaal was worse even than in Johannesburg, for there practically every white storekeeper was being surplanted by an Indian, and when he looked at the 300 children coming out of school the other day and reflected upon the fact that white storekeepers were suffering before the Asiatic wave, he wondered what future was before those children and what employmenet there would be for them.

Speaking as a descendant of the 1820 settlers, he dwelt upon the privations of the older inhabitants to make it a place fit for a white race, mentioning the fact that his mother, like many other of those brave women of the older days, had been reduced frequently enough to wear for skirts the skins of wild animals. Were the privations and the tears of their grandmothers and grandfathers in this respect not to weigh with them, and were they weakly going to allow this country to be overrun by Asiatics, thus depriving their children of the heritage so nobly won in days gone by?

SLOM CONDITIONS.

Councillor S. Scott (Johannesburg), emphasising the arguments of previous speakers, stated that he had visited rooms and seen baskets of fruit and even butter in rooms where eight to nine people slept each night.

He believed that the Indians we had amongst us were not British Indians from India who had proved to be of a superior type, but the Asiatics amongst us for the most part were a mixed race from East Africa commonly called Arabs, who, in his opinion, were an undesirable type to have in this country.

After further debate, the resolution asking for an alteration in the law was carried unanimously.

The message says:—"Nothing but an intensely delicate state of Irish negotiations and the absolute obligation I feel to Parliament and country till these negotiations are completed, and Government's unemployment legislation operating, would have prevented my sailing last Saturday; but I shall sail at the earliest possible opportunity, and I hope to be present before the Conference reaches the deciding stage of its momentous work. The heart of Great Britain is set upon the success of the Conference. The world needed the lead which President Harding had given it. It was the New World's opportunity."

Mr. Hughes expressed to Sir Auckland Geddes the American Government's appreciation of the message.

OPIUM SALE IN KWANTUNG.

QUESTION IN COMMONS.

(REUTER TELEGRAM.)

LONDON, Nov. 10.
Recd. 11-45 p.m., Nov. 11.

In the House of Commons, Mr. Peter Raffian asked whether inquiries would be made regarding the question of opium sold monthly in Kwantung, and, if the allegations were confirmed, whether representations would be made to Japan.

Mr. Cecil Harmsworth replied that Hakamos evidence showed that the profits of opium office were paid to the Kwontung Government and as a result of the protests of the Chinese Government, it was decided to confine opium sales to within strict limits. There seemed to exist no ground for British representations being made to Japan. Japan had intimated her definite decision to abolish entirely the Government opium monopoly in the Kwantung territory.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

LAHORE, Nov. 10.

Mahatma Gandhi left Lahore to-night for Ahmedabad. He will stay a few hours in Delhi and Ajmer and reaches Ahmedabad on Saturday. Before his departure Mahatma Gandhi addressed a huge gathering of fifty thousand people this evening when he advised the people to boycott the visit of the Prince of Wales and help the Municipal Committee of Lahore in execution of their resolutions in connection with the removal of the Lord Lawrence's Statue from its present site on the Mall. He said that people of Lahore had got a clear issue on which to start Civil Disobedience and asked the people not to rest until the statue was removed from its present site. They must be ready for death and imprisonments and should go near the statue and remove it even at the risk of being shot or arrested. He advised the people to take some ladies with them and if men were arrested the ladies should go forward and take possession of the statue and remove it.

Mahatma Gandhi could not speak for long time as the crowd was very large and order could not be maintained on account of the noise from audience. The meeting dispersed within three-quarters of an hour and Mahatma Gandhi left.

PROROGATION OF PARLIAMENT.

THE KING'S SPEECH.

(REUTER TELEGRAM.)

LONDON, Nov. 10.
Recd. 1-30 a.m., Nov. 12.

The King's speech, on the occasion of the prorogation of Parliament, alludes to the good progress made towards the solution of the most critical problems at home and concerning the foreign affairs. It welcomes, with deep satisfaction the visit of Prime Ministers of Dominions and representatives of India, and trusts that similar regular meetings may be arranged. The King is happy to know that Governments, here and overseas, are in close accord on all issues of foreign policy which were discussed, and it was unanimously decided that the naval strength of the Empire should equal that of any other power.

The King earnestly hopes that the Washington Conference will be crowned with success. Despite unexampled depression of trade, the King anticipates that the current budget will not show deficit, although the estimated surplus for the reduction of debt will not be realised. His Majesty appeals to the people to support Government's efforts for rigorous economy.

IRISH DEADLOCK.

The King declares that "situations in Ireland still causes me great anxiety. I earnestly exhort leaders of all parties, and those in whose hands lies the power to influence negotiations and discussions, to exercise patience and moderation, with the object of establishing friendship and loyal cooperation between my people of that country. It is my firm belief and earnest prayer that, with good will, forbearance, and honest resolve to tread the paths of oblivion and forgetfulness, enduring peace will be finally achieved.

The King declares that the coal strike aggravated adverse effects of the worldwide trade depression. As regards unemployment, the speech outlines the Government's far-reaching methods of alleviation and hopes that the worst, now that there are methods of alleviation, is now over; but the position is still full of anxiety and the King looks more to cooperation between employers and operatives ,than to the Acts of Parliament, for the restoration of trade and prosperity.

Silver was easy at the opening but improved later on when it was common knowledge that some speculators were trying to engineer a "corner" for the near position. The off-take is about 35 bars a day and the stock is estimated at about 5,500 bars.

PIECE-GOODS.

Nov. 11.

There has been very little activity in the Cloth Market during the past week. This year the "Moorut" sales during the Dewali have been very disappointing and it seems that the movement for the boycott of foreign goods is making itself felt. Although the consuming districts have been depleted of stocks, the demand has been very poor, and it is evident that buyers have not been in the mood to replenish their holdings at present and have adopted a waiting policy at least up to the end of the year. The future is very uncertain and developments are being watched very keenly. Transactions amongst the merchants in the bazaar have also not been very encouraging and only few packages, especially of white goods, have changed hands at cut rates. Deliveries have therefore not been on a large scale as is usual every year during this occasion, and it has been a trying time for the importing firms, who have to hold stocks on the account of dealers since a considerable time. A fair lot of white Shirtings, which was bought by an importing firm on own account, at high rates, has found its way into the market, but the price realised has shown a heavy loss to the firm. At Agra and several other places the import of foreign cloth has been stopped, the merchants having given a undertaking not to send orders till the end of December.

The Manchester Market has been steady with very little business passing. Some makers have been anxious for orders and have been quoting finely cut prices to effect sales, especially of grey goods in competition with Japanese and local mills. Some lines of Nainsooks for January-February delivery have been bought at fair rates by an importing firm on own account, in anticipation of an improvement in the market in the near future. Manchester correspondents have been declaring from the house-tops that extravagant expectations with regard to prices falling need not be held in Bombay or elsewhere and that at the first sign of adequate demand there will be a quick bracing up of quotations all round. The very fact of making this declaration shows that the position in Lancashire has not been healthy, and the outlook is certainly very gloomy, in view of the fact that the buying capacity everywhere has been greatly reduced owing to various causes.

Local mill cloths have been moving fairly. Sales of 20,000 packages have been estimated to have resulted, out of which half the quantity is comprised of fancy cloths. Shirtings have remained steady at about Rs. 1-13 per lb.

Japanese goods have met with some demand and rates have advanced. Importing firms have effected some sales from their purchases made previously on own account.

HOME MARKETS.

Nov. 11.

Advices from Home markets are of a bearish character owing to worse trade, serious political situation and financial troubles and they expect the market to decline further owing to very poor trade demand in the near future. The following table will give an idea of the changes in the Home markets during the week under review:—

Week commencing from 2nd November to 10th November, 1921.

Liverpool Spot 1921 ...	12.65	11.55	—110
New York Spot 1921	19.00	17.30	—170
Liverpool Jan. 1922 ...	11.82	10.91	— 91
Liverpool Mar. 1922 ...	11.60	10.87	— 73
New York Jan. 1922	18.49	16.65	—184
New York Mar. 1922	18.37	16.62	—175

LOCAL MARKETS.

Nov. 11.

F. G. Broach April-May 1922 opened in the bazaar at Rs. 483½ on the 4th instant, advanced to Rs. 493 on the 5th and continued to decline to Rs. 421 on the 10th and closed at Rs. 425 the same evening at Colaba.

Fine Oomras for December-January 1922 opened in the bazaar at Rs. 422½ on the 4th instant, advanced to Rs. 429 on the 5th and continued to decline to Rs. 365 on the 10th and closed at Colaba at Rs. 364 on the same evening.

This heavy decline in the local market was owing to heavy declines in the Home markets, and it is quite uncertain when they will improve as the cotton is not at present on its intrinsic value, but other factors working against the market. Advise caution.

READY MARKET.

Nov. 11.

Our market for ready cotton continued to maintain a quiet tone owing to continued lower advices from New York during the week. Japan exporters bought some fine old Nagpur-Wardha cotton and new Berar ready lots during the week. About 14,000 bales are reported to have changed hands during the week.

SUGAR MARKET REPORT.

Nov. 11.

During the early part of the week our market ruled very quiet with large arrivals and prices for ready Sugars were reduced by over a rupee per cwt., but later on offices came out buyers for forward deliveries and this helped nervous holders to withhold selling freely and since last three days the feeling is better, although the prices ruling in our market is nearly 2s. per cwt. cheaper than those of suppliers. A fair quantity of Belgian granulated has been bought back at 19s. Free Bombay Harbour and White Javas at 18s. 6d. to 19s. F. B. Harbour and Mauritius Crystals at Rs. 12-10 to Rs. 12-14 F. B. Harbour.

Karachi and Calcutta markets remain quiet but steady with very little business doing. Java market is reported quiet with small business doing at 11⅞ to 12 gilders F. O. B. Mauritius keeps steady with very little business doing. American market keeps quiet with no buyers.

The following are the bazaar rates and stocks:—

T.M.O. Rs. 19 equal to 18s. Free Bombay Harbour, stocks 175,000 bags.
Mauritius Rs. 19, stocks 23,000 bags.
Arrivals:—
S. S. Golconda with 53,286 bags Java Sugar.
S. S. Garmala with 65,000 bags Java Sugar.

COLOUR MARKET.

Nov. 11.

After the Muhurat, business passing is not healthy. Rates are almost maintained but they are more in favour of purchasers. Fast Red Madrasi was in demand. Direct Green remains steady. Benzo Purpurine and Delta Purpurine were ruling easy. Alizarine 20 per cent changed hand at the ruling rates. The rates have grown steady and the home quotations report steadiness.

Quotations:—
Alizarine 20 per cent Rs. 140/150 per cwt.
Congo-Red Rs. 2/8/0 to 3/4/0 per lb.
Direct Green Rs. 5/6 per lb.
Magenta Crystals Z. Rs. 13/14 per lb.
Benzo-Purpurine 4B Rs. 4 per lb.
Delta Purpurine 5B Rs. 5/4/0 per lb.
Nigrosene Crystals Rs. 3/8/0 per lb.
Hemetine Crystals Rs. 1/12/0 per lb.
Sulpher Black Rs. 2/10/0 per lb.

MILL STORES MARKET.

Nov. 11.

No interesting features transpired in the mill stores market. Healds formed the only commodity which had arrested the attention Miller, Hogg, Heartley and Drake have arrived in the market. Old lots are little available and do not fetch good prices. Reeds are dull in demand. No quotations are evidenced in the transactions of Reeds. Roller Cloth and other woolen goods are still scarce, especially of the Kenion make. Bandings of Oldham are booked at nearly 20d per lb. C. I. F. Bombay. Lambeth ropes are comparative ly higher and the bazar rate is nearly Rs. 2-8-0 per lb.

Leather goods are very quiet. Picking bands are steady at Rs. 2-8-0 per lb. Pickers Dig-Dag and Broomley are ruling still very high. Buffers are fluctuating between Rs. 2-6-0 and Rs. 2-10-0 per lb.

Fillets have no demand; home offers are also low; bazar rate is nearly Rs. 1-5-0 per ft.

Quotations—
Healds Rs. 3-2-0
Reeds Rs. 4-5-0
Pickers Rs. 85/110
Pick-Bads Rs. 2-12-0

Bandings Oldham Rs. 1-5-0
Ropes Lambeth Rs. 2-6-0

CHEMICALS MARKET.

Nov. 11.

The chemicals market has considerably gone down during the last four months chiefly due to the heavy influx of German chemicals. The rates now have been stabilised and a further fall in the prices is rather impossible. English chemicals are selling comparatively much higher than German ones. Aniline salt was offered at nearly 6-7d German; but, a turn seems to have taken place, and the forward rate C I F has been now nearly 10d Bichromate of soda and Bichromate of potash have very slightly improved. Brown sugar of lead has not participated in the small rise. Bleaching powder is rather dull. Caustic soda is quoted at Rs. 30; Sodium sulphide U steady at Rs. 26 the larger drums being quoted at Rs. 24; Japanese sodium changed hands at Rs. 21; Epsom salt had considerably fallen, however, a small rise has been witnessed, owing to some scarcity of the German goods. Country Epsom salt is also sold at Rs. 7 per cwt. Zinc Chloride had nothing of importance also, the demand is comparatively small.

Quotations:—
Aniline salt Rs. 0-12-0
Antimony salt Rs. 1-4-0
Glauber salt Rs. 6-0-0
Epsom salt Rs. 7-0-0
Brown Sugar lead Rs. 38-0-0
Bleaching powder Rs. 26-0-0
Caustic soda Rs. 30-0-0
Dextrine Rs. 30-0-0

PUBLIC MEETING AT DHULIA.

ENDORSES KARACHI RESOLUTION.

(From a Correspondent.)
DHULIA, Nov. 2.

An enthusiastic public meeting of the citizens of Dhulia was held on the 1st inst. at the Manik Chauk to endorse the Karachi Resolution of the All India Congress Working Committee. Mr. Javdekar took the chair. Hundreds of Hindus and Musalmans assembled at the Chauk. Printed copies of the Working Committees resolution were distributed among the audience. Moulana Abdussalam moved the Karachi Resolution. Mr. Ogale, editor of the Prabodha, Mr. Abdushakur and several others supported the resolution, which was solemnly passed the whole audience standing. The other resolutions, viz. congratulating the Ali Brothers and others and to observe hartal on the 11th instant in order to boycott the Prince of Wales visit were unanimously passed.

RAILWAY GRIEVANCES.

To the Editor of "The Chronicle."

Sir,—Will you please allow me some space in the columns of your valuable paper re: ever-increasing high fares and rates on Indian Railways so bitterly complained of from time to time.

The only effective way to ensure a reduction in fares is the curtailment of journeys which should be undertaken when really necessary for purposes of business or one's health. All pleasure trips and pilgrimages, a source of untold hardship to pilgrims owing to their being treated like cattle should be avoided as much as possible and intending passengers disuaded from undertaking them.

Re: rates for Goods traffic. Cheap prices owing to cheap transport converted luxuries into necessities of life and time has come for the conversion of the latter into the former again. Articles of daily requirements should be bought when cheap and stocked, and speculative transport of goods should be stopped altogether.

Steamer freight have considerably gone down but Railways are continuing their policy of enhancing fares and rates which are already very high compartively. Only a heavy fall in earnings will open the eyes of Railways and will make them change their aggressive policy.—Yours etc.

COMMON SENSE.

HOWRAH FIRING,

MAGISTERIAL INQUIRY.

(Associated Press.)
CALCUTTA, Nov. 10.

The Magisterial enquiry into the Howrah riots will probably close to-morrow. At today's sitting 12 witnesses were examined, six from the police side and six from the public. Four constables corroborated the evidence given previously by other constables. The police witnesses deposed to an attack made bp the Khilafat volunteers and injuries caused by volunteers to the police officers and men. According to the constables at the Thana gate Sergeant Betcher ordered them to fire while on the Shibpur road a similar order was given by the Inspector Saheb. Sergeant Betcher said he was assaulted by a volunteer with lathies and Messrs. Kelly and Larkin were stoned by the mob and hurt. At the Thana gate he fired in air and also ordered a constable to fire in air, as he apprehended there would be bloodshed and delay would be dangerous. Soon after firing the crowd dispersed.

Moulvi Mazibar Ahaman, Pleader, deposed at great length from a prepared statement putting forward the version. He admitted the attack on the Thana but said people were unarmed and the constables charged the crowd with lathies as men were retiring. He saw some 20 or 25 constables indiscriminately assaulting men with lathies. He did not see any police officer there at that time. One volunteer was dragged inside the Thana and brutally assaulted. Even after that the volunteer went on shouting Allah-ho-Akbar, though threatened by Sergt. Macdonald with being shot by a revolver. Witness said three shots were fired at the Thana gate. After the crowd dispersed the constables molested the shopkeepers who hurriedly closed the doors. Witness then proceeded to Shibpur and found large angry crowds at the head of each lane with lathis and brickbats awaiting the return of the District Magistrate and the Police Superintendent. Witness was told that 5 volunteers had been shot dead. The crowd waited to take revenge upon the Bura Sahebs. The enquiry will be resumed to-morrow.

"THE HOWRAH OUTRAGE."

The "Amrita Bazar Patrika" writes:—With the two committees one Magisterial and the other non-official—sitting to enquire into the tragic affair at Howrah it may be too early to express our final opinion on the causes of it. But one cannot but be amused at the proceedings of the District Magistrate. He had issued a communique on the occurrence giving his version of it, and he has constituted himself into a committee to enquire into the same affair. Is this not funny? Then again who are the witnesses before the Magistrate? Why, the very officers who had more or less a share in the affair! Could he not spare himself and the public of this grotesque farce of an enquiry? And what view does the Government take of his action? Does it agree with him that the matter involving the loss of lives of Indians is so insignificant that it was enough that the Magistrate should hold a make-believe enquiry? Since Lord Ronaldshay took charge of the Presidency there have been about half a dozen such cases; and it reflects no credit on the Government of the Presidency that the police open fire on or assault unarmed and inoffensive crowds whenever they please.

And how did the Howrah outrage originate? Whether we accept the police version or reject it in favour of the popular version it is clear that the provocation, as usual, came from the so-called guardians of law, order and peace. The meeting at Howrah ended like many other meetings and the volunteers proceeding home. Some of them shouted "Gandhi Maharaj ki jai" or somebody sang a song. There was nothing in it to which exception could be taken. Yet exception was taken and the result was an outrage in which several Indians were wounded and killed.

Mr. B. P. Pain, Vakil, Howrah, has given a statement in which he says "none amongst the officials is man enough to admit that he had given the order to fire." How then came the police to fire? Surely it is required of the police that they should not fire without orders. If it was a case of the exasperated mob attacking the police were the people warned first and were other means of quelling the disturbance exhausted before the crowd was fired upon? If it is a fact that a constable died of a fatal shot it goes beyond saying that no precaution was taken when fire was opened. Then Mr. Pain says:—"What puzzles me most is why Mr. Larkin, Joint Magistrate, was there when such meetings have been held almost once or twice every week since the movement of non-co-opration was started without the slightest suspicion of trouble and why Mr. Larkin should have stood interfering with the crowd when it was dispersing in a peaceful and orderly manner."

Later on Mr. Pain says—"I have had several accounts given to me about the real reasons underlying this friction and they deserve careful investigation. They are that the Marwari shop-keepers strongly resented the vigorous picketting which began from about the 1st or 2nd of this month and that failing to get the picketters removed by the ordinary process of law they invoked the aid of the police and desired them to bring about a collision by any means." Such things have happened before in Bengal during the height of the Swadeshi movement. But we would wait till the non-official committee published their report.

WHAT'S A MILLION DOLLARS TO A "MOVIE" DIRECTOR WHEN ACCURACY IS AT STAKE?

The $200,000 Replica of Monte Carlo

King Canute, the Scandinavian monarch who tried to make the tide recede at his command, would turn green with envy if he could be in California to-day and see grass growing by request of a motion picture director.

Erich Von Stroheim is filming "Foolish Wives," a story of Monte Carlo. For the purpose of the picture Monte Carlo was duplicated, first at Monterey and later at Universal city, at a cost of $200,000. The unprecedented setting includes the casino, the hotel and the Cafe de Paris. The buildings are grouped around a verdant plaza. To erect the buildings and even transplant palm trees was not difficult for the technical experts of the studio but to make grass grow in the alkali soil of the plaza and to make it look exactly as grass should look in the right season at Monte Carlo. was a problem.

Covering the alkali foundation of the soil with a rich loam, carefully selecting a grade of grass to correspond exactly with verdure at the minute on the Isle of Monaco, and assigning a corps of expert landscape gardeners to keep a night and day vigil over the plot, the plaza was ready for the cameras when the director and his company returned from location at Monterey to begin work on the studio replica of the gambling principality.

The circular plot of grass may never be caught by the cameras—if it does it will not occupy the screen for more than a few seconds; but like everything in Von Stroheim's productions—it must be right if it costs a million.

A glance at the illustration above will give the reader an approximate idea of the pains to which this director has gone in his quest for accuracy and fidelity in detail. Every palm is located in a position similar to that of its counterpart in Monaco; each decorative carving on the exterior of the three edifices is an exact replica of the original in Monte Carlo; even the dinky little street car runs as jerkily as its continental twin.

THIS POST OFFICE RECEIVES ONE THOUSAND "MASH NOTES" DAILY

Uncle Sam's Postal Headquarters at Universal City

One of the seven original jokes is the wheeze about rural postmistresses reading other persons' mail in search of a thrill. What wouldn't one of the joke book variety of postmistresses give to handle the job of sorting and delivering one thousand love letters a day?

Of the two thousand odd letters which arrive daily at the Universal City post office, more than half are of the "mash note" variety. These amatory epistles bear the postmarks of nearly every part of the globe.

Priscilla Dean has an ardent Chinese admirer in Hong Kong, and if she does not receive a letter every week Miss Dean feels worried over her little Chinese friend's welfare. This correspondence has been going on for more than two years, and Priscilla is so impressed by his constancy that she answers his letters regularly. What does friend husband say? He's reconciled to his fate—but takes some satisfaction from the fact that his rival is only twelve years old.

Edith Roberts has been lording it over the other stars recently because her number of marriage proposals received per day had outnumbered those of her colleagues—her record was one hundred and seven offers of matrimony in a single day—but last week she received a terrific jolt. She received a burning epistle from one Augusto Santamaria, in Manila. Laughing over its extravagant terms to Carmel Myers, she discovered that this star had also received a letter from the Philippino couched in the identical terms. She made further investigation and found that every feminine star in Universal City and Holywood had received a similar letter from this syndicate lothario.

Even the male stars receive their share of "mash notes." Harry Carey thinks his mail has decreased in quantity somewhat since the newspapers announced the birth of his son last week. Eddie Polo who occasionally requires a sack in which to take his letters home thinks his admirers must think he is the world's greatest linguist, or else he must have thousands to spend on interpreters, for he receives letters in every tongue from Eskimo to Esperanto.

Opinions of the Day

The Education Department.

"New India":—Dr. D. N. Mullick (Indian Educational Service,) Professor, Presidency College, Calcutta, has been appointed Private Secretary to Sir William Meyer, High Commissioner for India in London. The "Bengalee" pertinently asks why it is necessary to rob the Education Department of a Wrangler and an eminent Mathematician and Physicist "to wait upon the pleasure" of Sir William Meyer and "serve as his factotum". Sir William, it will be remembered, has already a Personal Assistant in the person of Mr. J. W. Bhore, an Indian Civilian and ex-Dewan of Cochin. It is hoped, however, that Dr. Mullick's experience in India will be utilised towards the solution of the problem of Indian students in England. Writing in this connection, our contemporary quotes various instances in which the Education Department has been made to sacrifice some of its best men for political or administrative offices. It is well to remember that the efficiency of the Education Department should not be lowered, and that some of these transfers could have been avoided if the Government had thought of appointing Indians to such departments as Labour and Industries. At any rate the Department of Education ought to be more largely manned by Indians in the Imperial Service.

Fiji Deputation.

"Bengalee":—There seems to be a strange fatality haunting the Fiji deputation. Pundit Hariday-Nath Kunzru was appointed member of the deputation but in view of the coming Moderate Conference at Allahabad and the pressing duties awaiting him in Council, especially in connection with the Oudh Rent Bill, he has been obliged to resign. Pundit Govind Sahai has been appointed in his place and we trust all will go well with him. But in the meantime, it is doubtful whether Mr. Srinivas Sastri will be able to lead the deputation to Fiji, he being too much taken up with Imperial duties. It is stated that his plans have been considerably modified of late in consequence of his selection for the Washington Conference. We understand that Mr. Sastri expects that he will be forced to abandon his Fiji mission. This is the inevitable result of piling a plethora of work on the shoulders of a single individual. Surely it cannot be said that there are not other public men in India able enough to bear the burden of the responsibility. Why then embarrass Mr. Sastri by making him the inevitable member of every Committee and deputation. It is bad policy to thrust too much work on one person alone. Mr. Sastri is a man of commanding abilities but here are also mighty men with Agamenon.

The Prince's Visit.

"Servant of India":—Through Reuter's special service the Indian public are permitted to know what the view of "an authority on India" is regarding the object of the Prince of Wale's visit to India. Interviewed by a "Daily Mail" representative, this authority gave out—let us hope he was not inspired,—that the Prince was coming here because many thousands of Indian soldiers who had fought in Mesopotamia were longing "to see his face and receive at first hand from him something of his thanks for their faithful and unflinching service." In that case vigilant members of the legislatures might well propose that the expenses of his tour, which may come to about Rs. 50 lakhs, ought to be met by the War Office. The Prince's visit is now a settled fact and we shall welcome him as gracefully as circumstances permit, though we wish a more suitable time had been chosen. But we might be spared explanation which are more amusing than convincing.

Eastern Ideals.

"Hindu":—Pressed by the force of circumstances, eastern ideals are slowly becoming popular with western theologians and philosophers. Thus, the peculiarly eastern precepts of "Reduce your necessities," "Do not carry two coats," "Learn to do without," were some of the precepts of Canon Alexander who preached on "Doing Without" at St. Paul's Cathedral in mail week. What was wanted, he said, was a mood of contentment with little things, not a grudging and compulsory economy. Men should reduce their self-indulgence and women curb their extravagance in dress, not because they were compelled to be simple but because they had at last found out that a man's life did not consist in the abundance of his possessions. "Simplify your tastes," he said: "Cultivate a spirit of contment in an age which is perhaps the most vulgar in history; beware of vulgarity. If we had taste and refinement and good feeling," he continued, "we could spend half of what we did at present on the apparatus of life and could produce inner results. The idea that a woman was beautiful because she wore expensive costumes or that a room was beautiful if crowded with costly furniture, was the exact reverse of the truth."

B. P. T. RAILWAY:—"One who knows" warns applicants for the post of clerks advertised by the manager of that Railway. He states that the rules of the Provident Fund of the Railway which are different from those of the other Indian Railways lay down a limit of 15 years for obtaining the Board's contribution. Passes and P. T. O's. are not issued by the Railway except over G. I. P. and the B. B. & C. I. The office time is awkward and there is no convenience for refreshment. Residential passes are not granted nor are quarters provided near the place of work.

The rent in Bombay is gone high but the Railway gives only 10 per cent house allowance.

DUST NUISANCE:—Mr. P. G. Naik of the Social Service League complain that some of the main roads in this city have become a regular source of danger to the public this is particularly so in Parel, Byculla and other poor localities the roads are never watered. And, the consequent dust-storms which are a daily feature on the roads full of coal particles, Cotton fluff and particles of dried refuse endanger the health of the residents and prepare the way for epidemics. He wonders why the Municipality should go on widening the roads everywhere, when it is unable to repair those already in existence. He understands the reluctance the majority of the Corporators to secure the widening the Municipal franchise. He therefore, believes that unless the vote is placed within the reach of the poorest these and other civic grievances will not be redressed.

WATER SCARCITY AT PAREL.—"Unbathed" writes that during the last two weeks Parel is suffering from scarcity of water—despite the fact that the reservours are reported to be full. People residing there have to go without water during day time. He states that even during the last summer they had not experienced the miseries they at present suffer the sweeper are unable to clean the latrine for want of water. An open "Nulla" emitting horrible stench is allowed to run in the open. Parel, he says, is the Cindrella of the city, its dust, smoke, coal and traffic nuincances being proverbial. He wants the Corporators to justify their position as "representatives" of the people.

THE HINDU GYMKHANA:—T. H. N. comments on the Selection Committee's nomination for the coming match. He wonders why Mr. Pai who at present is not practising should be appointed captain of the Hindu team instead of one of the Palwankar brothers.

THE HINDU SKIPPER:—Mr. J. B. Girkar asks as to why the claims of Mr. P. Vithal were ignored and Mr. M. D. Pai selected to captain the Hindu XI in the forthcoming Quadrangular contest in spite of the fact that the latter has not played a single match during the season.

EXCISE POLICE AND KATHIAWAR PASSENGERS:—Mr. Bechar Ananji and 24 other passengers including ladies have sent us a copy of a letter addressed to the Excise Department, in which they complain about the insulting behaviour particularly towards ladies, of police Naik No. 85 and two policemen, one without the uniform and the other No. 17 at Wadhwan.

THE BEGGAR QUESTION:—Mr. Shamlal, president, Hissar Dt. Congress Committee, suggests we should rid India of professional beggars by providing workhouses for the able-bodied and asylums for those unable to work. He hopes that Swaraj legislatures will pass an act on the lines of the English Poor Law.

THE ROYAL VISIT:—'Pro Bono Publico' writes that in order that idlers may not gather to see the Prince for the fun of the thing, national leaders should organise processions, meetings and bonfires on the occasion of the Royal Visit.

PRINCE ANOTHER LOYALTY RESOLUTION:—A Kapole gentleman states that the some title-holders in his community intend getting a resolution of loyalty to the Prince passed, on the 12th instant, at their communal meeting. He hopes that the Kapoles will gather strong on the occasion and defeat this move.

PRINCE AND BANDRA MUNICIPALITY:—Mr. P. S. Shah states that the Bandra Municipality has sanctioned a sum of Rs. 2,000 in connection with the royal visit, though the Prince is not visiting Bandra. He hopes that the Ratepayers' Association and the Bombay Suburban District Congress Committee will come to the rescue of the poor Bandrites.

NEWS FROM BARODA:—D. S. T. writes that swadeshi is making steady progress at Baroda, Charkas are at work and Khadi is distinctly in evidence. Mr. Seddon I. C. S., formerly officiating Dewan, has rejoined State service as a minister. He is looked upon as a kind, considerate and able minister.

Our Prescription Department is our Special Pride.

Physician's prescriptions or family recipes entrusted to us will be compounded with the most scrupulous care. Our system of checking makes it impossible for a mistake to occur in compounding while our splendid stock of drugs and medicines is an assurance that we are never "OUT" of anything prescribed and that prescriptions will be filled exactly as the physician wishes it to be.

That's why POWELL'S PRESCRIPTION BUSINESS IS THE LARGEST.

STARTING very modestly away back in 1887, this great Manufacturing Business in the Drug line has won its way to leadership throughout India, Burma and Ceylon; and having outgrown their present manufacturing capacity they have purchased a few years ago a big plot of land with a view to further extension of their Drug line.

Some years ago they had announced to the Medical Profession that they are fitting Manufacturing and Pharmaceutical Laboratories with complete up-to-date plants which will be equipped with all possible recent labour-saving appliances for the manufacture of Pharmaceutical preparations and chemicals according to the B. P. Standard. Further, these Laboratories will undertake the investigation of indigenous drugs, &c. The buildings in which the Laboratories are being accommodated have been built on the most approved modern system and entirely fire-proof.

POWELL'S chemicals and pharmaceutical preparations insure high quality goods and they have catered to the Drug Trade for the past so many years with mutual satisfaction. In Prescription Chemicals especially POWELL'S are wellknown throughout India. We would therefore urge the Medical Profession to specify POWELL'S when ordering chemicals from their Druggists for their Dispensing Department.

We appeal to the Medical Profession to extend to us their patronage, and we on our part to deserve that patronage will always maintain that standard of Purity of Chemicals upon which the Profession depend for the accuracy in filling prescriptions, so vital to their reputation and the patient's recovery.

MADRAS CONVOCATION.

MR. REDDY'S ADDRESS.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

MADRAS, Nov. 10.

The annual Convocation of the Madras University was held this afternoon at the Senate Hall; over 1770 candidates were presented for diplomas including a good number of lady candidates. The presentation ceremony being over Mr. C. R. Reddy delivered a customery address which was well received by the graduates.

Addressing the Convocation of the Senate Mr. C. R. Reddy, after congratulating the new graduates on their success advised them, with regard to the choice of profession, to follow their natural aptitude and to avoid rush towards a few favourite pastures. Exhorting those who would take to public life and engage in party conflicts, he said, that in relation to rival parties we should learn to differ without acrimony and to discuss without importing personalities. He asked them to avoid rankling words and insulting reverence and not a mistake impassioned infective for eloquent refutation. He said that no true educationist would dread the present unrest and agitation, social and political, which has drawn students out of petty self-centred conceptions of life and fired them with noble if at times ill-directed, enthusiasms. It is the business of the educationist to harness moral forces and convert them into energy of organised purpose and action. Regarding the University Reforms he said that it should develop a larger outlook, if it is to fit itself to increasing democracy of our times and also help to render the times increasingly fit for democracy. The Reforms Act has created a craving for up-to-date information in practical politics and that institution of professorship or other teaching arrangements for comparative legislation, comparative administration, local and central sociology, and methods of social research and social service would meet real and urgent want. Referring to the cultural antagonism he said that as a result of party of political reaction against the West there is to-day amongst a section of our people cultural reaction feeling that cultural intercourse with the West should be avoided and that we should retrace our steps and regain the purity of our original life, its simplicity, its deep philosophy, its poetic peace, and spiritual rapture. Whether this revolt will be long lived or short time will show.

WHYTE COMMITTEE SITTING

BURMAN'S PROTEST.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

RANGOON, Nov. 10.

A largely attended meeting of the Burmans has protested against the acting Commissioner of police in stopping picketing of the Whyte Committee. Resolutions declared that the meeting held Government responsible unless it upheld the people's constitutional rights and punished infringements. The resoluton passed by the General Council Burmese Associations was read to the meeting that as no independent witnesses were forthcoming picketing was no longer necessary.

The meeting of the Indians has protested against the statement favouring communal representation submitted to the Whyte Committee by six Indians claiming to represent Indian Community, emphasising opinion that in Burma representation should be noncommunal. An objection is taken by the Indians to the presentation of a statement and giving of evidence before the Whyte Committee as prejudicing the Indo-Burman Co-operation.
